A COURSE FOR MOTHERS

Many women in Glendale are eagerly waiting for Wednesday, October 13. This is the day for the first lecture in Domestic Science in the course to be given at the High School, under the direction of the Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations.

Miss Hansen, the Domestic Science teacher, is co-operating with the ladies to make this course a success. She is very competent and will make the lectures very interesting.

The first of the course will be upon "Food Values," to be followed later by some chemical and kitchen demonstrations.

The lectures are open to the public and all women are invited. The ladies should bring their pencils and tablets. Bear in mind the day and hour, Wednesday, October 13, at 3:15 p. m.

LOCAL D. A. R. PLAY

General Richard Gridley Chapter, D. A. R., will hold its next meeting at the home of the regent, Mrs. John H. Braly, 205 North Brand boulevard, Wednesday, October 13, at 2 o'clock. The whole chapter is invited to be present and each member is asked to bring a guest. It is expected that this will be one of the most enjoyable entertainments of the season. Mrs. Braly, the hostess, is noted for her kindly hospitality, and the guests are assured of a hearty welcome. In keeping with the character of the society will be the form of entertainment provided. This will consist of a colonial play, which has been arranged and will be staged by Mrs. Wayland Brown, the well known dramatic instructor. Appropriate music will be discussed throughout the afternoon. The arrangements are such as are certain to contribute greatly to the comfort and pleasure of those present.

WHITTIER TROUBLES

Whittier citizens have been suffering from two evils. One that the wealthy girls of the high school insist upon wearing expensive gowns at school receptions, which act discourages the attendance of girls who are not able to procure expensive attire. Another evil is that men and boys are stealing walnuts from the ranchmen. The former difficulty was settled by the school faculty, who ruled that expensive dresses must not be worn at receptions. The latter case will be settled in the police courts.

WEATHER FORECAST

Fair tonight and Tuesday; westerly winds.

ST. MARGARETS DANCE

YOUNG WOMAN'S GUILD ENTERTAINED WITH BALL LAST FRIDAY EVENING

One of the recherche affairs of the season was the St. Margaret dance, which took place Friday evening in the Masonic Temple, and was conceded by everyone to have been one of the most attractive dances ever given by this organization, which has always been noted for its pretty social affairs.

Graceful cat tails and feathery pampas plumes artistically arranged in tall vases intermingled with yellow blossoms, the Guild color, and asparagus fern attractively placed on the stage; honeysuckle vine hanging from the chandeliers transformed the hall into a veritable fairyland, reflecting much credit on the decorating committee, Clara Reed, Athena Puri, Arline Hallahan and Frae Morse Wells.

The grand march, led by the president, Miss Irene G. Read, and the first vice president, Miss Ethel Land, with Mr. Gerald Delgado and Mr. Hugh McClellan opened the evening's festivities.

The surprise of the evening was that given the guests by the Pacific Mutual Glee Club, who rendered a splendid musical program arranged by their manager, Mr. Claud A. Wayne. Soloists were Mr. J. Frackleton and Mr. C. E. Jacobson.

The patronesses of the dance were Mrs. Willard Whedon, Mrs. Joseph Stagner, Mrs. L. G. Scovern and Mrs. George Bannock.

Officers and members of this organization are as follows:

Irene G. Read, president.
Ethel Land, first vice president.
Cecelia Wilson, second vice president.

Maysie McCann, secretary.
Arline Hallahan, treasurer.

Ethel J. Read, Agnes Frostick, Athena Puri, Grace Crampton, Olga Puri, Gertrude Champlain, Bess Phillips, Lillian Mills, Eva Black Peck, Elizabeth Lange Heinman, Amy Bowlerfind, Katherine Wells Flint, Pauline Scholz, Frae Morse Wells, Mattie Belle Provolt, Clara Provolt, Bessie Provolt.

UNIQUE "AMBER" PARTY

When Amber Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Young, of Rock Glen avenue, attained the interesting age of 13, on Saturday, October 9, she determined to give a birthday party that should be unique in its setting and appointments. Amber's parents lent themselves to her plans, exemplified them and succeeded in making the event one to be remembered by all who had the pleasure of taking part in it.

This was an "amber" party in its every detail. The flowers used in the decorations were nasturtiums and yellow chrysanthemums. The amber color was carried out throughout every room and on the veranda. Amber candles to the number of thirteen adorned the large birthday cake and reminded the little daughter of the house how the years glide away. Much fun was made over cutting up the cake and the happy young ones laughed to their heart's content over the fortunate individuals who got the ring, the button and the penny. Throughout the afternoon amusing charades were acted and a guessing game on the names of books afforded much amusement, and tested the knowledge of the guests. Among those present was Mr. R. L. McNitt, who is leader of the Eagle Rock boy Scouts. Mr. McNitt is immensely popular with all the children of the neighborhood, and his advent was greeted with rousing cheers. He helped to make things agreeable for all.

Miss Amber received many handsome presents, including a gold bracelet watch. The beautiful afternoon lent a wonderful charm to the spacious and picturesque grounds of the Young residence. Through the winding walks and flower beds and under the many trees the merry children played "Follow My Leader," and had a good time till the evening shades warned them of the time to depart, when they were all conveyed to their homes in safety.

The children present were: Beryl Hatch, Jewel Feaster, Mildred Osmon, Mary Johnston, Helen Berg, Margaret Stuckwich, Dorothy Schleuter, Katherine Lowe, Ruth French, Alberta Stoddard, Myra Johns, Constance Braasch and the little hostess, Amber Young.

PRIZE BOY FARMERS

GREAT CONVENTION AT UNIVERSITY FARM

The greatest convention of Boys' Agricultural Clubs ever held in any state is to take place at the University Farm at Davis from Thursday afternoon, October 14, to Saturday morning, October 16, to celebrate their achievements in the yearly crop-growing contests which are doing wonders in showing what good farming really means.

There will be 250 boys there to represent 55 out of the 65 boys' clubs organized by the University of California. The boys' clubs which have sprung up all over the country are bringing about an astonishing revolution in the improvement of farming methods. Nowhere are greater contributions to the prosperity of the community being made by the boys' clubs than in California, for the prize winners and their close competitors are giving to their neighborhoods examples of how to improve the yield and the profit of California farms, which often make their elders' eyes stick out of their heads with surprise and admiration.

The feat of raising on a quarter of an acre of land as many bushels as the average California yield for a whole acre was accomplished by Ralph Weaver, a member of the San Jose Boys' Club. On a quarter of an acre of land he raised 126 bushels of potatoes, or four times as heavy a yield as the average for California potato growers. Corlis Wilkinson of Riverside, on a half acre, raised 167 bushels of potatoes, which is at the rate of 334 bushels per acre. Clairborne White, of the High School Agriculture Club, of Stockton, raised 3530 pounds of American Wonder potatoes on a quarter of an acre and made a net profit of $36.13. Roy Huffman, of Chico, raised 5390 pounds of potatoes on a quarter of an acre, and Ralph Parker, of Lockford, winner of the Lodi High School contest, made a profit of $30.05 by raising 1960 pounds of potatoes on one-eighth of an acre.

To feed four pigs so scientifically that in one particular ten days they made an average gain of 30.4 pounds each, or three pounds a day, was the achievement of Oscar Dimrick, the prize winner of the club at Le-moore, Kings county. Bryce Sherman, of Tulare, made $28.26 net by bringing his four pure bred Duroc Jersey pigs in ninety days from a weight of 220 pounds to a weight of 817 pounds—or a gain of 597 pounds in three months.

Pig raising has been the most popular contest in California this year, but some of the boys' clubs have contested in the growing of corn, tomatoes, popcorn, milo maize, beans, mixed vegetable gardening, and raising of numerous other typical California crops.

A great event of the convention at the University Farm is to be a symposium in which the prize winner from each club will make a three-minute speech telling how he raised his crop and why it beat what the neighbors do.

The 250 boys are to camp at the University Farm in State Militia tents, the president of each club serving as corporal for his club, and one student of the University Farm School serving as captain for every three clubs. The boys will hold competitions in judging pigs and dairy cows. They will be shown how to vaccinate swine so as to protect them against hog cholera, and how to test cattle for tuberculosis. Improved methods of pruning will be demonstrated. There will be a stereopticon lecture on soil formation. There will be baseball and football games, races, a pushball game, a tug of war, bonfires, musical programs, swimming, and all manner of student "stunts," arranged by the University Farm Agricultural Club for the entertainment of its guests. A special train will convey the delegates, on Saturday morning, October 16, to San Francisco, and there the little army will visit the agriculture and horticulture buildings, the livestock and automobile exhibits, the palace of fine arts, the exhibit of farm machinery and other great exposition sights. The prize winners, from thirty-five of the clubs, are then to go to the university to be entertained that night at various fraternity houses.

On October 17 thirty-five of these boys who by their skill in the crop contest have won the prize of a trip East, will board their special cars for a month's journey across the continent, under the leadership of B. H. Crocheron, assistant professor of agricultural extension, and R. M. Hagon, his assistant. On each day of their journey they will be given opportunity to see examples of the most successful achievements in

FROM WHAT STATE?

SEND IN YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS WITH THE NAME OF THE STATES TO WHICH YOU BELONG

From time to time the Glendale Evening News receives requests for information regarding the states from which citizens of this community come, and while in some instances it is possible to answer those queries, in others it is impossible. To satisfy this reasonable interest in those with whom we live and move this paper asks you to send in your name and address, with the name of the state to which you consider you belong.

This record will take in the whole Glendale community. Send in the names of all those in your family. Let the public have a record of the city from the viewpoint of the states from which the population has come. This will be interesting and will constitute a good matter of news.

In order to facilitate the gathering of this information The News appoints Monday, October 18, as "Wisconsin Day." All citizens of Glendale who consider Wisconsin their state are requested to send in their names and those of their family, and also of their friends from the same state. Those names will be arranged and published. It will be interesting to see the showing of each state. You have a whole week before you in which to do this.

Thursday, October 19, will be Iowa Day; Wednesday, October 20, Indiana Day; Thursday, October 21, Pennsylvania Day; Friday, October 22, Missouri Day; Saturday, October 23, Illinois Day. The days for the other states will be announced later.

YOUNG MAN PASSES AWAY

Wide spread sympathy among a large number of the young society folks of Glendale and Tropic attended the passing of William Wylie Cooper, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cooper, of Los Angeles. Wylie, as his friends called him, was a frequent visitor at the home of Eugene H. Imler on Park avenue, and no social function at Palm Villa, young Imler's home, was fully complete unless Wylie Cooper and his brother Alfred, who was equally as popular, were present. Thus many of the young people of Glendale and Tropic had met this promising young man and all admired him for his many excellent qualities. He was a most clever musician and possessing a fine tenor voice, he was a member of several musical clubs in Los Angeles. The passing of this brilliant and gifted young man occurred at the family residence, on South Figueroa street, Los Angeles, Saturday night. Wylie, who was a student at Manual Arts, was taken ill, after partaking of his noon luncheon, provided at the school, Monday, and a severe case of ptomaine poisoning developing, four physicians battled the entire week to save the patient sufferer, but to no avail, and Saturday night the end came. Funeral arrangements will be completed when word is received from Mr. Cooper, father of young Wylie, who is in Canada on business.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The quarterly communion service was celebrated at this church Sunday morning before a congregation that has rarely been exceeded in numbers in the history of the church. The very broad and general invitation given by the pastor to partake in the service of the communion resulted in a very large participation by those present. Rev. W. E. Edmonds was assisted in the administration of the sacrament by Rev. F. A. Field. A large addition was made to the church membership, some by profession of faith, but the majority by letters from other churches.

farming of the regions through which they pass. While in New England, for instance, they are to see the three best dairy herds in America; in Kentucky, Tennessee and elsewhere in the South they are to see the finest examples of rice, sugar and cotton plantations, and in Texas they will visit a famous cattle ranch.

Among the Boys' Agricultural Club which are expected to have delegates at this convention at the University Farm at Davis from October 14 to 16, are those of Auburn, Bakersfield, Campbell, Chico, Delano, Dixon, El Cajon, Esparto, Fairfield, Gilroy, Goddard, Grass Valley, Gustino, Hanford, Hollister, Hughson, Kerman, Lodi, Lompoc, Riverside, Rutherford, Salinas, San Diego, San Fernando, San Jose, Santa Barbara, Sebastopol, Sonoma, St. Helena, Stockton, Tulare, Turlock, Van Nuys, Visalia, Watsonville, Whittier, Willoms, Woodland.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1915

GOOD ROADS INTEREST GLENDALE

Glendale is profoundly interested in the project for constructing a road from the vicinity of Pasadena through the mountains to the north. Such a road would open up one of the greatest resources in this county—the Sierra Madre range. This project has been continuously worked upon. Many obstacles have been overcome. Of their own accord the supervisors have now proposed a county bond issue for the construction of a number of short roads that are imperative to make the present system complete.

This bond issue of $2,850,000 will be voted on October 26 and will be the only bond issue on the ballot. Each road to be built is specifically stated and includes the Arroyo Seco road from La Canda to the head of Mill Creek canyon which is about 8 miles from Vincent, Antelope valley. It also includes the road up the San Gabriel canyon to within a very short distance of the floor of the valley and then a skyline road connecting the Arroyo Seco and San Gabriel canyon roads.

There can be little question of the value of a system of roads that opens up the mountain region. Glendale has suffered greatly from the floods which rush down in devastating torrents through the city. While it is right to make some provision for taking care of this trouble in the city itself it cannot be denied that the source of the trouble is farther up among the Sierras. The best investment the county can make is a system of good roads that will traverse the most charming and picturesque mountain region in this part of the state.

This will not only be a great advertisement, attractive to citizens and sojourners alike; but it will also afford one of the greatest protections to our watersheds, in making it possible to reach forest fires in the shortest time possible. Without roads available in the mountains it is hopeless to expect any adequate conservation of our water supply or protection against the destructive forest fires which have swept away so often the natural protection against floods.

Should some provision be not made to avert as far as possible those fires, far greater disasters must be expected in the future than have occurred in the past. It is now thought necessary to spend several million dollars in flood control work to offset the damage already done. The mountains being the source of all flood waters, they should be properly taken care of so that the damage caused by floods to the valleys will decrease instead of increase.

According to its present policy the Board of Supervisors will build the necessary roads by direct taxation should the county bond issue not carry. That would mean that the taxpayers would have to pay 25 cents on each $100 valuation for the next few years instead of a fraction more than 2 cents for the same valuation over a period of forty years.

Nothing can be said that would overestimate the value of these roads to a city like Glendale in common with the whole county. The constant occurrence of fires in the mountains means a serious decrease of this city's water supply. The damage caused to such a city as this from this cause cannot be exaggerated. Adequate protection of the watersheds is absolutely essential to the future welfare of the entire county and particularly to foothill districts like Glendale.

EUROPE WILL NEED RECONSTRUCTION

When this cruel war is over and the nations are patching up their cities and returning to their fields, rebuilding and recultivating, there will come a demand for the assistance of the United States in a thousand diverse ways. The old countries will need men, food, agricultural stock and manufacturing machinery. Europe's difficulties in supplying these needs will be not any less than were the difficulties of the South after the Civil War.

Europe will be compelled to seek for help in the United States. Perhaps Britain may be left out of account in this regard, for that country has not by any means come near the point of exhaustion that faces the other lands engaged in this gigantic struggle. Britain still has command of the seas, and her manufactures have not been affected in half the degree those of other countries have been. She has not yet given anything like the full measure of her men, her money or her resources. Her industry and her commerce have not been interrupted as have been the industry and commerce of France, Germany and Russia.

Of course, a great deal of what is being said at present is merely speculation regarding the probable terms one or the other side will exact from the conquered. There may not be any conquered to impose terms on. There may be no finality to the war except the finality of exhaustion. In that case without the aid of a war indemnity each nation would have to recuperate on its own resources. Germany, if beaten, could not pay an indemnity such as would be imposed on her and at the same time repair the ravages of the war, for many years to come. The most that Germany has sought to get of late has been an "honorable peace." An honorable peace does not mean an indemnity.

Again, Germany has lost her colonies and is not likely to get any of them back. Competition in the field of foreign trade will be very difficult for her for a long time to come. France and Italy will have no greater problem than France had in 1871. Belgium's restoration is a matter for international consideration. Austria-Hungary already talks of repudiation of her debts. Turkey also is counting on repudiating what she owes the nations, that is to say, as far as they will allow her to repudiate.

What the nations will have to do in order to pay their debts and live is to restock their factories and their farms. France and Belgium and Italy will need new equipment. Italy perhaps less than the other two, as the war has not been on her territory. Belgium will need to re-equip her factories. France will need to restock her farms and to buy new farm machinery. Agricultural implements will be needed in all the belligerent countries with the exception of Britain and application must be made to the United States to supply that demand.

Europe's sugar industry will need new supplies. The whole textile industries of France and Belgium will need to be replaced.

In poor Belgium the destruction of the tools and factories of production has been almost complete.

In short, after the war is over the United States will have an opportunity of selling all that may help to restore to pristine prosperity the agriculture and manufactures of France and Belgium. This will increase business relations between this country and Europe and bring about greater understanding of each other and greater international good will.

For many years the South has suffered from keeping to the cultivation of its single crop—cotton. In bad years when cotton brought no price worth speaking of, many farmers in the South were ruined. The negro, too, was taught to grow nothing else but the unfailing cotton plant and he, too, was head over ears in a slough of debt. Now there is in existence a diversification movement in the matter of crops, which is doing a great deal to redeem the South from the sad condition into which a great part of that fertile region had fallen. Reports, for instance, from the district of Newark, Ark., show that this season up to the middle of September, twenty-five carloads of wheat had been moved in that section. Thirty carloads of alfalfa had also been shipped. Twenty-five carloads of canned goods are in stock and twenty-five more will be canned during fall. The shipments of corn are likely to reach 200 carloads. This district formerly raised nothing but cotton and purchased its food-stuffs outside. This year the cotton growers are to have a system of systematic help from the United States treasury. Gradually the South is being emancipated from the tyranny of a single crop. The southerners may laugh this year at the British orders in council making cotton contraband, it is out of the mental blindness which led it to depend on a single crop.

NATURAL COLORS

Students of design have always indirectly gained inspiration from nature for their work, through the study of paintings by the old masters, the unrivaled textiles, rugs, and shawls of the ancient oriental weavers, the pottery of the earliest dynasties, and the delicate prints of Japanese and Chinese artists, but it is only at a comparatively recent date that artists have begun to apply directly to design, hints gained from the nature material surrounding them.

Whereas, the Japanese artists depended largely upon the trees and flowers of their islands for their decorative themes, and the Asiatic weavers looked to the butterflies and birds with which they were familiar for color schemes, as well as to the plant life to supply juices for the brilliant and unfading dyes, the modern tendency to apply natural combinations is showing itself in a hitherto untried and original field of art, that of costume design.

To the nature student artist, an endless variety of color schemes is presented in animals, birds, reptiles, insects, flowers, minerals, and atmospheric effects. One of the first products of this direct turn to nature for color is seen in the beautiful pure colorings of the liberty silks which marked a new era in the history of silk textiles when they were put into the world market a few years ago by a London firm. To gain the splendid colors, the dyes were matched with gems, feathers and butterflies.

It was in London also that a firm was established some 15 years ago whose chief business was to supply the most progressive costume and dressmaking establishments of the city with butterfly-models of color for application in gowns. This firm had in its list of butterfly models between fifty and sixty different varieties selected entirely with an eye to color combinations.

An American student of butterflies tells a story of walking down Regent's street, London, and seeing a gown coming toward him in the exact coloring of the morpho cypris, a species of South American butterfly, famous for its brilliant blue wings.

Many other combinations of beautiful colorings are to be found in the butterflies of the warm countries, especially the Orient, which produces the one with wings like the cashmere shawls and from which the Indians are supposed to have gained their idea in the early days of weaving. What could be more artistic in a street gown than a dark brown with pipings of rich green and a touch of orange patterned after the papilio buddha of India, or of the dark velvety blues, purples, and blacks with touches of a brighter tint of the same color and a bit of red, as seen in the butterflies of Bogota. Manila has a butterfly with terra cotta colored wings, and in Africa one is found with wings like spotted chintz.

Opalescent effects, mother of pearl, and sifted gold and silver dust on olive green, black, blue of the African butterflies if reproduced in evening gowns could be unmatched in originality of design.

Next to the butterflies and moths, the pansies of the flower world probably afford the greatest variety of color schemes, and their novelty, softness and sumptuousness of tint and shade closely resemble those of the "blossoms of the air," as the butterflies have been poetically called.

James McNeill Whistler, that master of pure line and color, was a student of nature both by night and day, and the effects of this intimate association are seen in many of the artists' most famous paintings. Just how much influence Whistler's achievement of the peacock room has had on the costume designs of the day is hard to say but at least it brought into popularity the color of peacock blue in dress materials and peacock designs in textiles and embroideries.

That Whistler considered painting an art of pattern not of images which should appeal to the artistic sense of the eye and ear only, not the emotions, may account somewhat for the fact that his paintings more than others of the modern school are studied by designers for adaptation in costumes. A New York firm recently showed a gown adaptation from Whistler's painting of "Old Battersea Bridge," nocturne blue and gold. His paintings "Chelsea," nocturne of blue and silver, "The Music Room," a harmony of green and rose, and others of his color harmonies, marines, nocturnes, and color compositions, many of which are little known, provide a wide field of investigation for ambitious designers.

FOUND POLICE BADGE

Should anyone find a police badge on the street or in a car it may be well to remember that the wearing of it is an offense that may lead to prosecution on the charge of impersonating an officer. The police department of Glendale is investigating the circumstances attending the wearing of special police badge No. 8 by L. H. Spencer, 441 Maryland avenue. Spencer stated that he found the badge in a car belonging to one of the local garages. It appeared, on investigation that W. Hammond of the Central Market had found the badge in the sawdust in the ice box of that store, and that he had put it in his pocket, intending to return it to the police, but that it had fallen from his pocket in the car where it was found. The police are trying to find out how the badge was lost in the first instance.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Miller is a fine chorus leader and the special music also was very splendid. Meetings will continue each evening, beginning at 7:30. Your presence will be appreciated. You will hear a great message.

AID FIREMEN'S CONTEST

Among the societies that are active in the contest for the piano offered by the Southern California Music Company are the volunteer firemen of Glendale. Those young men have been faithful in the performance of their duties and have rendered efficient aid on every occasion when there has been a fire. Their meeting place at night is the fire house, where they remain practically on duty for several hours. It is to the interest of the city to provide such amusement for them there as will induce them to stay in those by no means attractive quarters. Vote for the fireboys. Go to the Southern California Music Company's store, 316 Brand boulevard, and register your vote for the firemen. You don't need to make a purchase. Call at the store and secure a special coupon, fill it out and deposit it there. There are other organizations in the contest, but none so deserving of public support as the volunteer firemen. They are performing an inestimable service for the city during their hours of watching as well as during their hours of active work. Help to bring some music into the dullness of their evenings in the firehouse.

SQUABS

The production of squabs from each pair of breeders varies from 1 to 2 to as high as 10 or 11 pairs a year, but an average of from 6 to 7 pairs is a fair estimate, although some squab breeders do better than this. Squabs usually sell at the highest prices during cold weather, as pigeons do not breed as freely during the winter as during the spring.

HUGE QUANTITY OF TIMBER

The quantity of standing timber now owned by the farmers of the United States reaches a huge total. It is estimated to exceed 250 billion feet of saw timber and 1 1/3 billion cords of cordwood.—Yearbook, 1914, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

FOOTHILL CLUB

Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, of Ken-neth road, assisted by Mrs. N. C. Kelley, will entertain the Foothill Club at LaRamada, Friday, October 15, at 3 o'clock. This is the opening meeting of the club for this season.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The title "Big Double Service," was most appropriate for the Rally Day service held Sunday morning. The attendance was large, filling the side rooms as well as the main auditorium. Members and friends of the Sunday School and Church were out in large numbers.

An interesting group of little ones were formally received from the Cradle Roll into the Primary Department. The superintendent spoke fitting words of welcome and presented to each one a diploma. Mrs. H. W. Yarrick is the efficient superintendent of the Cradle Roll.

The choir sang most efficiently the anthem "Onward Christian Soldiers," Dr. H. V. Everly contributed materially to the interest of the service by rendering a violin solo, with Mrs. Lewis P. Abell as accompanist at the piano.

The heart to heart talk to parents by Mr. E. O. Von Oven was intensely earnest, practical and suggestive. He made a lot of people begin to think of parental responsibility, his appeal to fathers was candid, sane and sympathetic.

Dr. Willisford, with the aid of a simple, but effective blackboard illustration, spoke about "Walking with Jesus." The story of the walk to Emmaus was the Bible reference used. The speaker made it all so simple and plain that even the youngest understood what it means to walk with Jesus and how helpful it is to walk with Him.

At 5 o'clock a goodly number of the members of the Christian Endeavor Society met at the church and considered ways and means for more aggressively conducting their work.

A simple lunch was served and social time enjoyed. After which the regular Christian Endeavor was held. Several new members joined the society.

An appreciative audience assembled at the evening service. The choir sang as an anthem "Sing Praises to God." Mrs. Mabel Ashton Boserman was heard in both song and on the piano. The closing solo was by Mr. Ralph W. Beers. All the music was of a very high and inspiring order. Dr. Willisford spoke on "The Better Way." The speaker forcefully showed how in the material and commercial men had ever selected the better way, thus helping forward the progress of the world. In the religious sphere men should ever seek and follow the better way—the best way—which is the Christ way. The preacher earnestly urged the people to enter into the better way and persistently and consistently follow it.

Thus closed another helpful Sabbath day. The church was prettily decorated with green vines and wild sunflowers.

A waiter who had been paying his wife $10 a week admitted that his salary was only $5, thus giving the public a tip.

UNCLE SAM'S AUTO MAIL ROUTES GROWING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Motorization of the rural free delivery system in the United States has been started with more than 250 auto routes established between July 1 and today, and 250 others to be put in operation by December 1, the Post-office Department announced.

Better service for less money to the public and better positions financially and otherwise for the carriers, are the reasons upon which the department based the motored-mail-route policy.

There were October 11, these auto routes already running: Arkansas, 1; California, 23; Colorado, 2; Delaware, 1; District of Columbia, 2; Florida, 13; Georgia, 68; Illinois, 3; Indiana, 14; Iowa, 24; Kansas, 3; Louisiana, 1; Mississippi, 2; Nebraska, 1; Oklahoma, 91; Pennsylvania, 15 and Texas, 24.

By December 1 there will be 14 in Alabama; Arkansas, 4; California, 29; Colorado, 3; Delaware, 20; District of Columbia, 22; Florida, 22; Georgia, 127; Illinois, 3; Indiana, 14; Iowa, 40; Kansas, 3; Kentucky, 3; Louisiana, 1; Maryland, 3; Mississippi, 3; Nebraska, 1; Oklahoma, 156; Oregon, 1; Pennsylvania, 16 and Texas, 59.

Burleson says these autos will improve the farmer's mail and express facilities. He says time schedules are better and weather doesn't effect autos so much. He says an auto can do 50 to 60 miles a day, regular schedule.

He's going to pay these auto carriers $1,800 a year, and make them supply their own cars and uniforms. He's going to adopt a regular style of auto and uniform. Carriers on wagon routes get only $1,200.

There's a carrier in Kansas using an auto on a 30-mile route who has been getting $1,200, and who is going to get $1,800, and he says the raise will more than meet his expenses, even when a good many miles have been added to his route.

FIRE PREVENTION COMMENDMENTS

The Safety First Federation of America Framed Them. It Knows.

1. Don't permit children to play with matches.
2. Don't throw away lighted matches, cigars and cigarettes.
3. Don't use naphtha or benzene in the home. (A pint makes 200 feet of explosive vapor.)
4. Don't block the fire escapes; you may need them yourself, quick.
5. Don't put ashes in wooden boxes or barrels.
6. Don't permit accumulations of rubbish.
7. Don't have lace curtains or draperies near open lights.
8. Don't fill kerosene lamps or lanterns after dark.
10. Don't forget to call for the fire department first thing; and to have some extinguishing apparatus.

HARD SPRING WHEAT

Hard spring wheat, although introduced into the northern Great Plains of this country and Canada about the middle of last century, did not become firmly established as a profitable crop until after 1870, coincident with the introduction of the purifier and roller mill. There are two chief varieties, Fife and Bluestem. The Fife was the first to be established. It is a little more hardy than the Bluestem and has a slightly harder kernel. The kernel is particularly distinguished by its greater breadth in proportion to length and by its very broad groove. The Fife has white bare chaff and the Bluestem white velvet chaff. Both varieties have red kernels and no beards.

FOREST CULTURE

Forest culture is as much of an art as is corn culture. A good wood lot, like a good corn field, is the result of applying intelligent methods to produce a full, valuable crop. A corn field with fall spots, empty hills, feeble stalks and half-filled ears is neither a credit to the farmer nor a paying investment for the farmer. No

MODERATION IN FOOD, DRINK,
JOY AND SORROW MEANS
LENGTH OF DAYS

The United States Public Health Service and the various health agencies of this country are working to prolong the average duration of life. In this they are obeying the desire for existence which is the strongest instinct of mankind. Only a small proportion of the human race rounds out this tour of duty on this earth. Some people are born with good bodies which they treat well. Barring accidents, they live to a ripe old age. Some people are born with good bodies which they treat badly and some people are born with poor bodies which they treat badly. They don't last long.

It is recorded that in Yorkshire in 1501, Henry Jenkins was born. He died in 1670, cut off at the age of 169. He remembered well the battle of Flodden Field. This occurred in 1513, when he was twelve years of age. The Register of Chancery and other courts show the administration of oaths to him 140 years prior to his death. He gave deposition as witness when he was 157. In his young manhood, when he was a little over 100, he was a remarkable swimmer.

The term "old age" too frequently is another name for the falling due of the debts of youth. Over-eating, working, these are drafts on the bank of nature which sooner or later must be met. Sometimes the day of reckoning can be put off a little bit, but Dame Nature will not be wheedled out of her claim.

The remarkable thing about Henry Jenkins is the fact that he has left behind him no rules of living which would enable one to duplicate his feat. In this he showed great self-repression. As a matter of fact there is no royal road to old age and it is not to be attained by a particular dietary or regimen of life. Perhaps the best rule may be expressed in one word, "Moderation." Moderation in food, moderation in drink, moderation in the joys and worries of life, moderation in work, moderation in recreation, equanimity of the mind, the soul and the body. These make for long tenure of life.

LITERARY DOLLS

Dolls are playing an increasing part in public library work. Here is a story about them from Passaic, N. J., told by Elizabeth White, the librarian, in the New Jersey Library Bulletin:

During the year dolls have been dressed in national costume by the different nationalities in town: Italian, Irish, Hungarian, Slovak, Bohemian, Dutch, German, French, Scotch, Polish, Jewish, Swedish and Russian. We tried as far as possible to get dolls with the national characteristics in their features, and I think we succeeded fairly well. These dolls are to be displayed in the different branches. So far they have been used in the Park branch for the story-hour work, a story about a different nationality being told each week, and the customs of the children in that country briefly described.

SALAD MAKING

All green materials should be kept cold from time of delivery and washed two or three hours before using in three cold, clean waters to remove parasites and clinging soil. One level teaspoonful of salt to a quart of water aids this.

Greens may stand for an hour in ice water to stiffen when wilted. Drain on clean, soft towels or warm napkins to absorb all the water and then place directly on ice or as near as possible.

The portions of cooked materials are greatly improved by "marinating," which means "standing in oil, vinegar and seasoning," hence it saves time to keep a pint mason jar with top or a wide mouth bottle with its cork in the refrigerator with the above mixture always ready.

Good roads are aids in keeping down the temper of men who travel on these roads.

SUNLAND AND LITTLELANDS

Because of a conflict in dates the musical recital of Miss Mettessel and Mrs. Dunn will be postponed to Oct. 16.

After the weekly prayer service of conference Wednesday of last week the managing board of the Christian Federation held a business session. Several applicants for membership were favorably considered.

Friday Night Garden Meeting

At the Friday night meeting the hall had been arranged with a table down the center and chairs all around in true conference or round table style. It was learned that Mr. Wieman could not serve on the executive committee to which he had been appointed and after much discussion on motion of Dr. Kearney Wm. Miles was elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Maxwell assisted by Mr. Hartranft gave an interesting stereopticon exhibition, showing the great work accomplished on the Los Angeles harbor Panama canal, work in the various canyons, etc. Mr. Maxwell called attention to the four notable achievements of reclamation already accomplished—dredging of Los Angeles harbor, municipal aqueduct, Panama canal, building of Roosevelt dam for irrigation of Salt River Valley and then Mr. Maxwell named four great objects yet to be accomplished in the future, viz.: Extension of Panama canal service to Mississippi valley, reclamation of millions of acres of land contiguous to Southern California and reforestation of the mountains for conservation of surplus waters and the greatest of all—that which lies near the heart of Mr. Maxwell and which he considers the most important of all—the proving that humanity can establish and maintain homes on small tracts of land.

Mrs. Charles Thayer has returned to her home on Monte Vista boulevard. Her eyes are somewhat improved though she is obliged to wear colored glasses for a time.

Mrs. E. Deming Smith came from Los Angeles last Saturday with an auto load of friends. They took possession of the Smith residence on Pine street and sojourned over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cott are now domiciled in their cottage on Sunset boulevard. Mr. Cott has been given a position in the Littlelanders store and will begin his duties there this week.

Mr. George Adam has recovered from his recent illness to the extent of being able to be about on the streets of our little burg once more.

Mrs. Miller, mother of Mrs. Lyman Maxwell, was a welcome visitor at the Federation last Sunday at the evening service.

Mr. Joseph Ewing, an old soldier, is lying seriously ill at his home on Los Angeles street. There is some talk of removing him to the hospital.

The squab business seems to be gaining ground in Littlelands. Mr. Johnson delivered a consignment to Los Angeles Wednesday and reports the prospects of the pigeon industry to be quite encouraging.

Mr. Sam Parmenter has changed from the Littlelanders stage line to the Pioneer stage.

The town meeting last Tuesday evening was one of more than usual interest. It was suggested by Mr. Ashby that mountain laurel, which is in great demand in the city, might be gathered and sold at a profit. P. J. Blake, in speaking of the abatement of the fly nuisance, said that if borax were liberally scattered about their breeding places it would prevent the breeding of the miserable pests.

The main interest of those present was centered in the report of the executive committee, who have been giving much careful attention to the appointment of sub-committees for the different departments in the colony. The following is a list of departments with the chairman of each committee: 1. Transportation, old committee continued; 2. Bees, to be appointed; 3. Goats, Miss Brissinden; 4. Poultry, Mr. Shiras; 5. Pigeons, W. G. Paul; 6. Rabbits, Miss Benedict; 7. Vegetables, M. V. Hartranft; 8. Irrigation, Fertilization and Cultivation, Mr. Miles; 9. Fruit, Mr. Rouse; 10. Drying of Fruit, Mr. Lubrecht; 11. Pruning, When and How, E. Woodruff; 12. Berries, W. R. Mehard; 13. Ornamental Trees, Hartranft; 14. Grasses, Mrs. Darlington; 15. Canning and Preserving, Mrs. Hoffman; 16. School Gardens, Mr. Ashley; 17. Medical Plants, Mr. Wieman; 18. Reception and Entertainment, Mr. C. H. Clark; 20. Coordination of Different Organizations, Mrs. Fairfield; 21. Welfare, P. J. Blake; 22. Dietetics, Miss Mabel Free; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. B. F. Kearney.

The chairman of each committee is expected to appoint two other members to help in his work. Mr. Paul announced at the close of the meeting that he would willingly devote one day each week to instructing, in so far as he is able, any who are beginning the squab business. Mr. Paul is making a success of his own business in this line and is doing all he can to encourage others in this line.

At Hillside ranch, Dr. and Mrs. B. Zachau delightfully entertained a number of friends with a camp fire of a musical and literary program. Mrs. Thomason rendered beautiful piano music, Mr. M. N. Wieman gave a humorous reading from Mark Twain, Mrs. G. I. Maxwell sang two solos, Mr. C. N. Clark gave a selection from James Whitcomb Riley, Miss Rowley, a piano solo. There was a reading by Mr. G. I. Maxwell of a selection in Scottish dialect and songs by Mesdames Zachau, Fisher, Woodruff and Ingersoll. Near the close of the evening a delicious collation was served. The guests of this pleasant occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Ingersoll, Mrs. Lubrecht, Miss McHale, Mrs. Clara Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. E. Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Rowley and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lamson, Rev. W. N. Wieman, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Fisher and Mr. C. N. Clark.

Board of Trade

The regular meeting of the board of trade was held at the close of the town meeting Tuesday evening. After the reading of the minutes the reports of different committees were given. Committee on guide boards announced the signs were ready for ported a plot of ground available for a cemetery in the Verdugo hills, not far from the Morgan ranch. It was suggested that an industrial committee be appointed. The annual meeting occurs November 3. The executive committee meets every third Saturday of each month, and the regular meeting of the board is held the first Tuesday evening of each month.

Mr. Paul, chairman of the Pigeon Committee, announces there will be a meeting at his home on Stephen Way next Monday evening, of all those interested in this industry.

Mr. Williams, who has been living at Ocean Park for some time, visited last week with Mr. E. Chapp on San Ysidro road. He was very favorably impressed with Littlelands and may locate here in the near future. His home is in the east.

Time hangs heavy on the hands of the individual with nothing to do.

THREAD DYED ALSO

While dyeing materials for two evening dresses—one a peculiar shade of green, and the other a delicate shade of lavender—I dyed spools of white thread and silk to correspond with the materials, writes a contributor to the Modern Priscilla. It is usually very difficult to purchase spool cotton or silk to match materials dyed.

APPLE BUTTER

To 7 pounds of apples stewed and run through the colander take 3 pounds of sugar, 1 cup vinegar and 2 tablespoons cinnamon. Boil gently 3 hours. This is much less trouble than the old way of making apple butter and equally as good.

MRS. G. MILLS SAYS DEMAND FOR MEN AND WOMEN WORKERS IS INCREASING

That the demand for manual laborers is increasing is the opinion of Mrs. G. Mills, of the Mills Employment Agency, 912 West Broadway. Mrs. Mills carries on three different agencies. She collects bills, is an agent for a modern carpet sweeper and runs an employment agency. It is significant of the dullness of the times that three such businesses have been combined to make one.

"I started in the employment agency business," said Mrs. Mills to a representative of The Glendale Evening News, "about a year and three months ago. That was in the very heart of the depression. I found that in Glendale there was very little demand for men and the men also found out the same thing. I suppose that there is some exchange of ideas on this subject among those looking for work, for men out of work began giving this city a wide berth."

"In the case of women there has always been a greater demand than for men. I have always had places for women who were willing to do house work. In fact, I can never keep the supply equal to the demand. Women who are willing to go out by the day or for part of a day can always find employment. Women who are willing to take care of children and capable of discharging the duties of such a position need never fear starvation. There is always a demand for them."

"When you ask me about office work I have nothing to say. There is no demand of such an agency as this in such a city as Glendale for office clerks. Such places are always filled up in a city of this size from the large circle of one's friends or from some one recommended by a friend. I have no demand for stenographers, either. The market is limited and the demand is easily supplied. Occasionally I receive a demand for a carpenter or for a few carpenters. Sometimes I am asked to find a clerk, but that is so rare that it may be discounted at once."

"As a sign of the change in the times I would say that the very slight increase in the inquiries for work and the demand for labor indicated that there is some movement in the labor market. I do not look, however, for it to take definite form until after the coming presidential election. That seems a long time to wait; but it is expected, I hear from all sides, to make a vast change."

"In connection with my collection agency I find that there must be some improvement in affairs as people are beginning to pay up their bills. For a long time it was next to impossible to get bills paid. People simply hadn't the money. Now there must be a loosening of the pursestrings somewhere before this effect could be seen. Anyway, it is very gratifying.

"I notice also in my carpet sweeper business that there is an improvement. People can get along without food. A carpet sweeper may be a necessity in good times; but it is more of a luxury when times are bad. So, as people are again beginning to take an interest in this kind of household aid, there must be a financial improvement somewhere. I am glad it is so, even though it is not much to boast of. I look confidently for a better time in the near future."
